GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

MINNESOTA TERRITORY.

Gentlemen of the Council and House of Representatives :

It has pleased Divine Providence to permit you again to meet at the Capitol to consider the measures necessary to be adopted for the future welfare and general prosperity of our Territory. The year which has just closed has been one of most extraordinary prosperity to Minnesota ; every element of wealth has poured in upon us from the States with such rich profusion as to astonish the most hopeful in our future development. The agricultural products of the past year have more than doubled those of any former one ; the increase of cash capital has more than trebled ; the quantity of land entered by actual settlers has far outstripped that of any former year ; and our population, the only sure foundation of real wealth and greatness, has more than doubled. These and other evidences of a healthy and prosperous growth are attributable to the goodness of a kind Providence in blessing us with a healthful climate, a good soil, and a remarkably intelligent and enterprising population. It has also been the administrative policy of the Territory, to secure peace and quiet among the people, and thus to avail ourselves of the capital, enterprise and population, that would otherwise have gone elsewhere in the great West.

It is but just to the dignified character and standing of Minnesota to say, that her prosperity has been greatly promoted by the careful avoidance of internal strife about questions of National policy ; and even in her own internal affairs a free expression of opinion has been tolerated with a forbearance and good sense that may be pointed to with pride and satisfaction in all time to come. From sources deemed reliable, I am able to state the population of the Territory at about one hundred and eighty thousand souls, and I feel justified in saying that this is rather under than over the estimate made by many who have taken some pains to inform themselves on the subject.

It is proper to state that the taxable property in the Territory amounts to between thirty and thirty five millions of dollars, even at the low rate of assessment made by the officers appointed for that purpose. The returns made by twenty-four counties, show an assessment of twenty-four millions of dollars.

In view of our population and wealth, it seems to be a matter of necessity that steps be taken to throw off our state of dependence on the National Government, and assume the mantle of State sovereignty. Even should the most speedy organization be made to this end, our population must run up to two hundred or two hundred and fifty thousand people, and our taxable property reach fifty or sixty millions of dollars at least, before Congress will probably admit us into the Union. It is necessary to examine this question with some care, and to exercise that prudent and sound judgment characteristic of our intelligent fellow citizens. The only advantage we derive from remaining a political ward of the National Government, is the annual appropriation made by Congress to pay the expenses of a Governor, Secretary, three Judges, the Legislature, and the incidental expenses thereof, amounting in all to about thirty thousand dollars. The Marshal and District Attorney will continue, under a State government, to be appointed and paid as at present.

If, therefore, the present tax levied and collected for Territorial purposes, of ten cents on each one hundred dollars' valuation, be continued without the least increase, it will raise a fund of more than thirty thousand dollars, enough to pay all the ordinary expenses of a State organization. It is manifest that our present tax of ten cents on each one hundred dollars' valuation is as high as need be to support a State government, if the collecting and disbursing officers faithfully perform their duty, which, it is very likely, they will be required to do, when the people have to bear the evil and burden of their neglect. Then, the Legislator will be held to a strict and just accountability to his constituents for every dollar he votes out of their pockets, and we shall thus secure a more rigid system of economy in public expenditures.

In addition to this, we may fairly calculate upon the increase of the value of taxable property from year to year, and therefore avoid any necessity for increasing the per centage of tax to be levied for ordinary State purposes.

In this connection I am forced to the necessity of asking you to scrutinize the subject of Territorial taxes, and especially the disposition which has been made of the funds raised from year to year for Territorial purposes. The last assessment amounted to more than twenty-three millions, which will yield a fund of about twenty three thousand dollars at ten cents on each one hundred dollars' valuation, while every draft on the Treasury will not amount to eight thousand dollars. This tax, under a proper construction of the law, must be paid to the Collectors without deduction, and with very little delinquency under our tax system.

Many counties seem to increase their indebtedness from year to year without any apparent cause. I trust that all faithful representatives of the people will give this matter their attention.

I am satisfied that under a State organization, public economy will take the place of that seeming neglect, engendered especially under a system of government dependent on foreign support.

It is necessary to a proper understanding of this question, to enquire what hope there is, that the Congress of the United States will ever again make appropriations sufficient for our support.

I consider myself authorized in saying that there is a great reluctance on the part of the present Congress to grant us much further aid as a Territorial Government, because we have a larger population and more internal resources for self-support than any former Territory at the time of its application for admission as a State, and because it is expected of every Territory to ask admission when its population is sufficient to entitle it, if a State, to one Representative in Congress. If admitted into the Union this day, we would be entitled, according to the present ratio of Congressional representation, to at least two Representatives, and before another year elapses, (which must necessarily happen before Congress will again convene,) will most likely have population enough for three.

The ratio of Congressional representation is now fixed at about ninety three thousand. Assuming our population at present to be one hundred and eighty thousand, if the increase is in the same ratio for the ensuing year as for last, it will then reach three hundred thousand souls, and no one will pretend that the coming year promises less than the past.

It is therefore no longer to be disguised that a movement for a State government is forced upon us by public opinion abroad, and candor compels the admission that self-respect and, perhaps, a proper sense of propriety, bid us to assume State sovereignty at as early a day as the nature of our Government will allow.

It is usually charged that scheming politicians desire to hurry on the organization of a State government for their own aggrandizement. But this appeal to popular prejudice cannot be fairly made against the public men of Minnesota, as all of them up to this time have carefully refrained from agitating the subject, until our Delegate has been embarrassed by Congressional sentiment even to thwart his success in matters of ordinary appropriations.

When we arrive at that point where our strength makes us weak in the demand for Territorial support by Congress, it would seem to be the part of wisdom and dignity to place ourselves in a position to send Representatives to Congress to demand for our manhood what has heretofore been granted to our infancy.

The influence of two Senators and perhaps three Representatives, with authority to speak and vote, will surely secure more favorable legislation than can be expected from a Delegate, however faithful and efficient he may be in his capacity as such.

While we remain a Territory, our school lands must lie idle for the want of power to appropriate them where needed for educational purposes.

When we are admitted into the Union as a State, the swamp and overflowed lands can be claimed for State use, and not until then.

Upon our admission as a State, we shall probably receive a donation of public lands equal to the amount received by Iowa and Wisconsin, say five or six hundred thousand acres, for purposes of internal improvement or otherwise. The longer we remain a Territory, and the more dense our population becomes, less valuable lands will have to be taken; and if this grant is regarded as a desirable object to the State, the sooner we are admitted the better, under all the circumstances.

Upon our admission into the Union, like other land States of the Government, we shall, upon proper conditions, be entitled to five or ten per cent. on the net proceeds of the sales of the public lands within the State, for purposes of internal improvement, which will enable us to build common roads from point to point where they are needed, and which will fully compensate for many years for all the appropriations from the National Treasury for such purposes.

We should bear in mind that if Congress hesitates to grant further aid to support a Territorial government, they will not likely feel free to grant lands to us while a territory to aid in constructing Railroads or other internal improvements.

If it be true, therefore, that the Government or Congress think we are able to, and should take care of ourselves, and, for that reason, withhold the ordinary funds for supporting our judicial system, and perhaps hereafter our legislative appropriation, our future prospects would be greatly promoted by an early State organization.

While a Territory we have no credit as a Government, if such credit should be desirable to develop our resources; as a State, we may command such means as may be deemed indispensable to our welfare, especially as our population and wealth are ample to justify entire confidence abroad.

It is to be hoped that during the term of the incoming National Administration, Congress will provide means for a Railroad to the Pacific; and in that event it is of the highest importance to the North-West, and particularly to Minnesota, that she should be a State, and be fully represented and heard in both branches of Congress. If this great project should be acted upon during the present session, Minnesota could not be heard in one branch of Congress, and would be without a vote in the other. There is no great interest in which Minnesota has so heavy a stake to be won or lost, as in the Pacific Railroad. It may be constructed so as to make us one of the wealthiest States in the Union, and it may be so directed as to make us a mere feeder. If our interest is properly guarded in Congress, our best market for our vast lumbering interest will be in supplying the rich prairie farmers in the West with all their building, fencing material and fuel.

A Pacific Railroad will be a road to India. It will bring us in contact with six hundred millions of people, with a portion of whom we will ultimately open a trade, receiving their commodities, and supplying them with beef, pork, corn, grain, and breadstuffs of every kind. Then, the millions of wealth that has for ages doubled Cape Horn, will pass through the centre of the continent by land from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and this will be not only the American, but also the European channel of trade between the two oceans. It requires no great effort of the imagination to discover how readily European commerce and travel would take this route, by which they can reach the Pacific in three thousand miles from Boston or New York, while they now have to sail near thirty thousand to reach the same points.

In looking over the ground which promises the most hopeful results to this region of the continent, the conviction is forced upon my mind that a united and vigorous effort should be made for a Northern route through our future State as the surest road to greatness and power. And if we only prove true to ourselves in the effort to be successful, this National highway, stretching from ocean to ocean, will pass over our rich soil, and fill it with millions of wealth and all the incidental elements of prosperity and happiness.

Therefore, before this prize is lost to us by the energy and influence of rival routes, let us put forth all the political energy we possess to get into a position where we may have "blows to give as well as to take." In our present position, we are helpless in all political struggles, we are now at the mercy of public men for good or evil.

It is therefore my opinion, that the speediest action for a State government, consistent with other interests, should be taken. To this end, I would suggest that at an early day in the session, you pass a joint resolution, recommending a Convention to form a Constitution. An act should also be passed, providing for a census to be taken in March or April, the returns to be made to the Governor by the first of May, and direct him to issue his proclamation for an election of Delegates to be apportioned according to the ratio of population you may prescribe—certificates of election to be given as at present to members of the Legislature. The Convention may be authorized to assemble in July. Then provide for submitting the Constitution to the people for ratification at the annual October election, and if it shall then be ratified by them, that it be presented to Congress in the December following.

It is highly important to the permanent interest of our future State that you take this initiative step, instead of waiting for Congress to do so for you, as, in the state of political feeling in the present Congress, certain embarrassments may be thrown around our action which might fetter our own views in a very material manner.

But should Congress take any action in the matter during their present session, by giving their assent to the formation of a State government, the steps suggested for you to take will still remain the same, and the necessity for your action will not be changed in the least.

The course here indicated for you to pursue is not without precedent and high authority.

But if it should be your pleasure to adopt any other mode of accomplishing the same end, it will meet my cordial approbation.

There are now fifteen members of the Council and thirty-nine members of the House of Representatives, making in all, fifty-four, which number should probably be increased to ninety or one hundred, in the Constitutional Convention. It will also be necessary to provide for their compensation.

It is, perhaps, desirable that I should briefly recapitulate the history of some of the new States admitted into the Union, the time, and with what population—to serve as a guide in your deliberations on this State question. And first of the Northwestern States:

Indiana, by authority, took the initiatory steps for a State on the 19th of April, 1816; held the Convention in June, and was admitted in December of the same year, with a population of from eighty to one hundred thousand.

Illinois was formed into a territory February, 3rd, 1809, and admitted into the Union December 3rd, 1818, with a population of less than fifty thousand.

Michigan was admitted into the Union on the 26th of January, 1837, with a population of about seventy-five or eighty thousand.

The territory now comprised within the State of Iowa, was a part of the Missouri Territory, from 1804 to 1812, and after that was placed successively under the jurisdiction of Michigan and Wisconsin Territories. On the 12th of June, 1838, it was erected into a Territorial Government called Iowa, in which was included all that portion of Minnesota lying west of the Mississippi river. In 1844, it asked admission into the Union as a State, with a population of eighty-one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, and Congress passed a law, approved March 3rd, 1845, for that purpose, which, however, altered its boundaries, and was, in consequence, not accepted. By the Act of 4th of August, 1846, terms were agreed upon, and it was admitted into the Union on the 28th

December, of the same year, with a population of something over one hundred thousand.

Wisconsin was erected into a Territory on the 4th of July, 1836, and admitted into the Union May 29th, 1848, (after the first Constitution had been rejected by the people) with a population of over two hundred and ten thousand.

Missouri first proposed a State Government in 1817, but, owing to the vexed question of slavery creating so much dissension between the Northern and Southern States, was not admitted into the Union until 1821, when it contained a population of sixty-six thousand five hundred and eighty-six.

Arkansas was admitted into the Union on the 15th of June, 1836, with a population of about fifty-five thousand.

Florida was admitted March 3rd, 1845, with a population of about sixty thousand, although a Constitution had been formed in 1838.

It may become necessary to anticipate the ratification of the new Constitution by the people, and provide for the election of all the State officers next fall, so that the Territorial officers may then surrender their charges into the hands of those elected by the people.

It may be, and probably is, necessary to notice an objection which has been heretofore, and may now be urged against immediate action, to wit:—the absence of Congressional authority. It has been settled by the definitive action of both branches of Congress, that their authority is not a necessary pre-requisite to authorize a Territory to form a State Government, nor indeed, is the authority of the Territorial Legislature itself, positively necessary to enable the people to hold a Convention, form a Constitution, and ask admission into the Union, although some distinguished statesmen, always held that Legislative or Congressional authority was absolutely necessary to divest it of a revolutionary character. This doctrine, however, has been emphatically denied by the action of Congress, and by Mr. Benton, Mr. Buchanan, President Jackson, Mr. Strange, Mr. King, Mr. Niles, and most politicians of the North at the present day.

For a statement of our financial condition I refer you to the reports of the Auditor and Treasurer.

It is again urged upon you to make some change in your revenue system and laws, both in the manner of collecting taxes, and the mode of assessment. The checks necessary to detect fraud and defalcations do not exist in our laws; the facilities for avoiding the penalties our law inflicts are very numerous, and it would seem from the action of some that they were fully aware of the fact. These evidences of official negligence are not seriously felt yet, but the time is coming when our people will have to suffer for the example set by some of your County officers.

I deem it very desirable that you should look to the small details of the public service if you would secure a faithful administration of affairs. It is almost impossible to get the public sufficiently aroused to give their attention to the detail of State and County matters, and especially in our Territory, for the reason that every one is so much engaged in business as to seem to care for nothing beyond the immediate objects in view. While capital and population continue coming, the speculative enterprises of our people will continue, and but few will turn aside to correct or reform the abuses of the law, or bring to punishment the delinquent public servant. These things, to most of our people, are secondary considerations, if they are even entitled to so high a rank.

I have heretofore called the attention of the Legislature to the necessity of amending the revenue laws, especially as to the manner of levying, assessing and collecting the taxes, their disbursement, and the accountability of the various officers. I again renew my former recommendation on the subject.

I am not prepared to inform you what will be the result of the suit instituted by the United States against the Minnesota and Northwestern Railroad Company to test the validity of the Act of Congress repealing the Act making a grant of lands to the Territory to aid in constructing a road from the Iowa line from a point between Ranges (9) nine and (17) seventeen, thence by way of Saint Paul to Lake Superior. The first suit, or rather the writ of error, has been dismissed by the Supreme Court of the United States, and hence the Company are remediless unless they obtain the consent of the Government to bring a new suit. I learn that hopes are entertained by the attorneys of the Company that such consent may be ultimately given. But at present I know of no action necessary to be taken by you.

Many think we are so situated that we cannot attempt any internal improvements without aid from the National Government in the way of a grant of lands. It is believed, however, that Railroads can be built through almost any part of the Territory by individual enterprise, if the proper efforts are made. Let a company be organized under a proper charter, and books be opened for stock subscriptions in money or land on the proposed route. An amount of land at its present appraised value may be subscribed as stock equal at least to alternate sections for three miles on each side of the road, which will be ample security upon which to obtain loans to an amount sufficient to build the road. But I am assured that men of ample capital can be induced to take hold of a work on such a basis and complete it promptly. It does not require any very great sagacity to see that, as soon as the road is commenced, every acre of land thus subscribed as stock, and all adjacent lands will double and even more than quadruple in value. If even within six miles of any proposed road, especially if it be one running East and West, there could be obtained a stock subscription in land, at the present comparatively cheap rates, of one thousand acres, making in all two thousand acres per mile, it would be sufficient to build the road, supposing the cost per mile to be $20,000, which is deemed ample in this level region of the west. It is but reasonable to believe that as much can be realized here as there has been out of the lands granted to the Illinois Central Railroad, say seventeen dollars per acre, which would give $34,000 per mile, supposing the stock equal to two thousand acres per mile. It is believed that the lands subscribed as stock can be had at an average of five or six dollars per acre, and perhaps less, when the owners are conscious that their remaining lands will more than double in value, and every product raised will find a market almost at the door at increased rates. This is but a glance at a plan for building Railroads in Minnesota without government aid.

Some progress has been made in preparations for constructing the proposed Railroad between Saint Paul and Saint Anthony, and to connect ultimately at the St. Croix, with the Chicago, Fond du Lac, and Saint Paul Railroad. The latter company, I am informed, design to push forward to completion at as early a day as practicable, their road from the St. Croix to Saint Paul, and over it

Stock has been subscribed to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars, as I am informed, for the Transit Railroad from Wisconsin to Saint Peter on the Minnesota River, and strong hopes are entertained by the company that some aid will be obtained from the Government.

It affords me pleasure to inform you that a contract has been entered into by the Regents, for the construction of the new University edifice, which for architectural beauty and symmetrical proportions, when finished, will not be surpassed in the West.

The cause of education has by no means been neglected in the midst of the strife for wealth and speculation, but, on the contrary, common schools have been supported in almost every village in the Territory; Seminaries and Colleges have been erected and are now in operation in several parts of the country, each in a most flourishing condition. The Superintendent of Common Schools has taken great pains to infuse new life and excite a renewed interest in every branch of education, so far as it came under his jurisdiction or control. His able and interesting report will be laid before you, to which I respectfully refer for further information on the subject.

It is earnestly recommended that before you pass charters for any purpose, whatever, you will carefully scrutinise the powers and privileges to be conferred upon capital. Combined wealth has ordinarily more than its share of influence and power, and when additional facilities are given it, they should be scrupulously guarded so as to prevent them from becoming instruments of wrong and oppression instead of promoting the public weal.

One of the serious obstacles to the rapid development of the resources of some of the new States, has been the numerous chartered monopolies which are now hanging on their prosperity. These monopolies may not seem to threaten our prosperity at present, or for some time to come, but in a few years they may be galvanized into life and used by capital for purposes detrimental to the interest of the people. There are abundant evils in the corporations heretofore chartered, and we may all feel thankful if they do not some day rise up in judgment against those who passed and approved them.

Corporations are sometimes necessary to combine capital for the development of our country's resources, when without them these sources of wealth might lie dormant for ages. Yet we are all but too well aware that, in every such case, the people give up whatever exclusive privileges these corporations acquire. It is a lamentable fact that the West is fast becoming the theatre for corporations and exclusive grants and privileges to the capitalists of the East and North, under and by which they are to branch out in their various fields of speculation.

I would not feel that I had fully discharged my duty in giving information of the condition of the Territory, were I to fail to call your attention to the vast amount of paper currency which has been sent into the West, and particularly to Minnesota, for circulation during the past year. Situated as we are, beyond the reach of a telegraphic communication with the States in which all this paper currency is issued, with irregular mails, our people are in imminent danger of being imposed upon by such funds.

It is by no means an easy task to devise a remedy, nor can one that will prove effectual probably be found until we become a State. But in my judgment, the first step to be taken by the Legislature is, to pass an act prohibiting the circulation of any paper currency of a less denomination than five dollars. It is believed that this will tend to increase the circulation of gold and silver, and keep out bills of the denomination of one, two, three and four dollars. This subject need not be elaborated to show its importance or the salutary effects which must soon follow the enactment of such a law. It is only necessary to say that small notes generally find their way into the hands of the poor, or those least able to bear the loss which might be caused by the failure of a Bank, or the partial depreciation of the currency. This portion of our people are less able to judge of its character, and have fewer facilities for detecting imposition. They are, therefore, much more liable to be imposed upon, and the very last to learn when a Bank fails, and consequently, should be the first to be protected by the laws of the country. We have no telegraph to announce to us this evening what took place this morning in New York or Boston; and this is another reason why the law should try at least to protect the people of the country against the worthless and depreciated currency that is constantly finding its way to this section of the Union.

It is the opinion of the observing and better informed portion of our people, that the main cause of our unexampled growth has been the facilities for actual settlement on the public lands, and the purchase through the right of pre-emption. This has been, and is understood to be, the policy of the present accomplished Commissioner of the General Land Office. Should you, therefore, desire to give cheap homes to the homeless, and fill the Territory and future State, with an honest, industrious population of farmers, this policy should be steadily maintained. Let us adopt this noble policy, and insist upon the Government's giving cheap land to the landless, and cheap homes to the homeless; at least, in Minnesota, and we will build up a populous and powerful State, that will bring us permanent wealth, permanent prosperity, permanent honors and permanent influence at home and abroad, with permanent power as a State. Let us have no more public land sales, except to actual settlers, until the land shall have been in the market without a settler for a few years, and then we will be able to notify the world that homes are to be had in Minnesota at one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre. This will build up all branches of trade and commerce; the merchant will have more customers; the mechanic, more employment; the laborer, more permanent and steady work; the farmer, more produce to sell, and more to buy that of others; and this policy will keep a steady home market for every product of industry for many years to come.

It is, therefore, especially recommended that a joint resolution be passed, enunciating this policy, and urging its adoption by our Government so far as Minnesota is concerned, and that it be forwarded to the Heads of the proper Departments, who will, most probably adopt and follow your recommendation. Then, in ten years or less, we shall have a million souls in Minnesota rejoicing in happy homes and permanent comfort.

In taking a retrospect of the past history, growth, and improvement of Minnesota, we cherish the hope that a great future is before us. Although we are yet too young to have Railroads completed, yet, a few years must bring with them a Railroad connection with Chicago, by various routes; soon such roads are to reach the Mississippi River at Prairie du Chien, La Crosse, Winona, Point Prescott, and the St. Croix at Hudson, Stillwater, and the Falls; soon a connection will be made with Lake Superior, Crow Wing, and all the intermediate points to St. Anthony, Minneapolis, and St. Paul; soon Telegraphic wires will be erected to various parts of Minnesota, putting us in daily communication with the National Capitol, the great marts of trade, and even with England and the Continent of Europe; soon we shall see slack water navigation from St. Anthony to Pokegoma Falls and one hundred miles on the Crow Wing, each furnishing unsurpassed water power for propelling any amount of machinery, and opening up a commerce unsurpassed in the North-West; soon Railroads will connect Lake Superior and the Red River of the North; soon slack water navigation will be made on the Minnesota River for three hundred and fifty miles; soon Railroads will connect the Missouri and Minnesota Rivers with the Mississippi at three or four points, each and all of these commercial chains bringing to light new sources of wealth, and bearing off the products of the soil to the various parts of the world.

Our country is peculiarly adapted to the construction of all these improvements, and they will be demanded by the wants of the people, and finished, long before the skeptical conservatism of the citizens of the Eastern, Northern and Southern States shall have done wondering at the unparalleled progress of the West.

Our relations to the National Government are yet such as to prevent us from taking part in the questions of public policy which have so deeply agitated the public mind. But we have cause to congratulate ourselves upon the conservative judgment of the American people, on the only question that has ever seriously threatened the integrity of the Union. The experienced and distinguished Statesman who has been called to preside over the Nation for the next four years, has inspired new hope and confidence in the perpetuity of our institutions.

It will be my pleasure to co-operate with you in all measures necessary to promote the happiness and prosperity of our Territory.

In all my official conduct and relations to the Territory, it has been my aim and object, honestly, faithfully, and impartially, to promote the welfare of the whole people, nor shall I tire in thus discharging my duty, until my connection with them shall end, and in whatever circumstances I may be placed, I shall ever desire and hope for the general good and permanent prosperity of Minnesota. And when my present official relations to her shall cease, I expect to retire to private life, and in an humble way help to bear her on to greatness, wealth, and distinction—her certain and inevitable destiny.

A Message from his Excellency the Governor being announced, Mr. Smith, his private Secretary, appeared and delivered the following Message :

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SAINT PAUL, Feb. 14, 1857. }

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives :

SIR : I herewith return to your honorable body " a Bill to repeal an Act granting to James M. Goodhue and Isaac N. Goodhue the right to establish and maintain a Ferry across the Mississippi River, and an Act to amend an Act granting to James M. Goodhue and Isaac N. Goodhue the right to establish and maintain a Ferry across the Mississippi River," which originated in the House of Representatives, with my objections to its becoming a law.

In order to a correct understanding of the merits of the Bill above referred to, it is necessary to state succinctly the history of the Charter sought to be repealed. The first Charter was approved by His Excellency Governor Ramsey, Feb. 27, 1852. The second Charter was approved March 2, 1855, and extended the time stated in the first Charter in consideration that the Ferry should be operated by steam, to meet the enlarged wants of the traveling public.

Before the passage of the amendatory Act, Isaac N. Goodhue sold and assigned all his right and interest in said Charter to Mrs. Henrietta Mann, formerly Mrs. Henrietta Goodhue, widow of James M. Goodhue, one of the original grantees named in said Charter. On the 27th of February, 1855, said Henrietta Mann and T. T. Mann, her husband, leased said Ferry to J. E. Fullerton, at an annual rent therein stated, for the term of seven years, which lease has been exhibited to me, and from which it appears that she has yet an interest in the boats, machinery, &c., now operating said Ferry. This contract between the grantees of the franchise and the lessee is still in force, the time not having as yet expired. Subsequently, said lessee, J. E. Fullerton, has sub-let his interest in said Ferry to one Alpheus R. French, who has during the past Summer and Fall had the care and management and operation of said Ferry, subject to the original lease, and to the rights of the original grantees. You will perceive, therefore, that Henrietta Mann, (formerly Henrietta Goodhue,) and T. T. Mann, are the grantees of said Charter, now sought to be repealed by this Bill ; that Alpheus R. French is their lessee ; in other words, that they are his principals, and he is their tenant, and that there is a valid and subsisting contract existing between the grantees and the identical person who asks the passage of this Bill, for his own benefit. This Mr. French has taken upon himself, in the most solemn form of contract, to keep and maintain this Ferry according to the requirements of the Charter, and if any neglect has occurred, or if any mismanagement, or any violation of the Charter has taken place during the past year, Mr. French is alone responsible for it. And if the Goodhue Charter is repealed by this Bill, Mr. French will have availed himself of his own culpable neglect to dispose his principal and transfer the resulting benefits to himself. After this Bill was introduced into the House of Representatives, and before its final passage, this identical Mr. French circulated a remonstrance against the repeal of the Goodhue Charter, but seems mysteriously to have abandone it upon being made a party to the present Bill, all of which has been done without notice to the grantees of the original Charter. The power to repeal the said Ferry Charter is clear. But this power surely was never expected to be exercised without sufficient cause being shown. And if such sufficient cause does now exist, one of the parties who seeks the benefits of its repeal is responsible, and if successful, the Legislature will enable him to take advantage of his own wrong to oust his principal and thus impair the obligation of a subsisting legal contract, and consequently be a direct violation of the tenth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States.

I have the honor, in conclusion, to say, that the facts herein stated are in my possession, and in the most substantial form, leaving the conclusion of law inevitable.

Mr. Murray moved to lay the Message from the Governor and the accompanying Bill on the table, and the yeas and nays being called for and ordered, there were yeas 14, nays 17, as follows :

Those who voted in the affirmative were,
